Somero Enterprise rallies as it sees full year earnings exceeding market forecasts

Somero Enterprise Inc (LON:SOM) expects 2017 earnings and revenue will be ahead of market forecasts following a strong second half performance.

Shares in the maker of laser-guided machinery used in horizontal concrete placement rose 8.4% to 372.5p.

"The board is pleased to report that the company delivered strong, profitable growth and healthy cash generation in the six months since 30 June 2017 exiting 2017 with its strongest trading month of the year," it said.

"As a result of the strong H2 performance, the board now expects 2017 revenues will be slightly ahead of market expectations of US$84.7mln, EBITDA will be comfortably ahead of market expectations of US$26.0mln driven by the volume increase and effective operating cost management, while net cash at 31 December 2017 is expected to be not less than US$18.5mln, well ahead of market expectations of US$16.5mln."

1.00pm: Sirius Minerals dips on delay to Woodsmith mine excavation

Sirius Minerals PLC (LON:SXX) shares edged lower after saying there had been some delay to excavation of the Woodsmith mine in Yorkshire due to poor weather.

In a quarterly update, the company tried to reassure investors by saying it is confident it can make up the time lost on the mine, which hosts to an estimated 2.6bn tonnes of fertiliser rich in potassium, calcium and magnesium.

The company said appointing a contractor to sink the main shaft at the mine is the next key task and all avenues are being explored to ensure this happens as soon as possible and that the impact on the overall construction programme is minimised.

Shares fell 2.8% to 23.2p.

Oracle Power PLC (LON:ORCP) has agreed to take full ownership of the company that owns the mining lease for the Thar coal to power project in Pakistan.

Shares rose 18% to 1.6p.

Anthony Scutt, Oracle's chairman, said: "Sindh Koela Limited now stand to benefit alongside existing Oracle shareholders as the project advances and the current disparity between the market valuation and that of the project narrows."

11.00am: Carillion shares drop after broker downgrade

Shares in Carillion PLC (LON:CLLN) fell 1% to 19p as Peel Hunt downgraded the stock and as the shadow business secretary warned the potential collapse of the company could spark a "serious crisis".

Peel Hunt cut its rating on the stock to 'sell' from 'under review', saying: "We suspect that given its mounting liabilities, recent press comment, growing customer worries and supply chain hesitancy that Carillion will be forced (by the banks) to accelerate its financial restructuring."

Shadow business secretary, Rebecca Long-Bailey, urged the government to bring contracts from the company back to public control amid worries it could collapse.

Carillion, whose contacts with the government include work on schools, the NHS and the HS2 project, has met with lenders to discuss options to reduce debt following a series of profit warnings.

"The collapse of Carillion could provoke a serious crisis," said Long-Bailey.

"It would have major implications for the outsourced government contracts the company holds, as well as the firm's thousands of workers, those in the supply chain and those who rely on Carillion's pension fund."

On the upside, HaloSource Inc (LON:HALO) shares rose 14% to 1.20p after the clean water technology company completed the first commercial production of its filtration product with supply partner, Chematek.

The group expects to launch HaloPure(R) Adsorption Composite in the US in the first half of 2018 and sees it generating its "first significant revenues from the sale of drinking water technology in the world's largest consumer market for drinking water hydration devices".

"We expect to also power our hydration devices in China with this media in conjunction with our e-commerce partnership with Shanghai JiuBan Industrial Co. Ltd. announced on 21 June 2017," it said.

9.30am: Nighthawk Energy and Petards in the red

Nighthawk Energy PLC (LON:HAWK) shares dropped after the US-focused oil company reported a fall in production in the year to date.

Output fell to a net 282,892 barrels in the first 11 months of 2017, compared to 364,399 the same period a year ago.

The company said production decrease was partially due to several wells requiring non-routine workovers. It expects to continue these workovers through January 2018.

Shares declined 13% to 0.5p.

Petards Group plc (LON:PEG) said it expects full year profit before tax to be above market expectations due to the positive net effect of exceptional items.

The delay involves a programme to develop additional software functionality for eyeTrain systems.

Financial adviser Lighthouse Group PLC (LON:LGT) said it expects to report full year revenue and profit ahead of market expectations, sending its shares higher in morning trading.

"The anticipated results for 2017 reflect the continuing and increasing importance of the valuable relationships the group has developed with its affinity partners, with 15,000 new client engagements undertaken during the year, as well as the on-going professionalism and effectiveness of the advisers across the group's operations," said chief executive Malcolm Streatfield.

Shares rose 13.6% to 22.50p

Armadale Capital PLC (LON:ACP) shares increased 8.8% to 2.45p after the investment firm said it had agreed to sell its interest in the Mpokoto gold project in the Democratic Republic of Congo.

The company, focused on investments in natural resource projects in Africa, will receive US$562,500 and a 1.5% royalty on gold produced for the stake.
