Rosslyn Data proving versatility with sector reach, says CEO

Charlie Clark, chief executive of Rosslyn Data Technologies (LON:RDT), says the firm is proving its ability to cover a number of sectors with its data technology after signing up one of the world's largest mining players last month.

Speaking to Proactive, Clark said the mining sector is a huge opportunity for the data business, but the firm would continue to target a range of verticals as part of plans to scale up.

Rosslyn - which specialises in cloud-based data analytics - today told investors that its performance was in line with expectations set out at the time of IPO last spring.
