Sealand Capital Galaxy aims to monetise Asian 'We Chat' data

Sealand Capital Galaxy (SCGL) talks to Proactive London about how Chinese consumers using the Chinese app 'We Chat' for everything from messaging to paying for goods carries with it huge amounts of big data which it intends to monetise. Working alongside established Asian business partners, the company's focus will centre on three territories; the UK, Dubai and Hong Kong. SCGL was founded in 2015 by a team of highly experienced businessmen with a mission to provide financial and strategic support to brilliant entrepreneurs and companies within the IT and digital sectors, including social media, mobile commerce, mobile gaming, digital content and fintech, across the geographical markets of Emerging Asia. Executive Chairman Nelson Law talks growth strategy and unrecognised income streams in advertising and commerce and explains how he intends to turn that around.
